SITUATION IN PRZEMYSL NOT YET OCCASION FOR ANY GREAT ALARM

(By Associated Press.)

VENICE, March 6.—According to the Hungarian newspapers received here the situation in Przemyśl, which has been under siege of a Russian army for four months, is not yet alarming. Aviators, who visit the garrison almost daily, report that there should be no really serious shortage of provisions for another three months. The victualing problem has been considerably assisted by the flight over the town recently of vast flocks of wild ducks which were shot by the thousands.

The population of Przemyśl now numbers about 60,000, including both soldiers and civilians and 5,600 Russian prisoners. The garrison is all Hungarian.

The Russian besiegers under General Dimitrieff hold every entrance and approach to the town, but they are still held outside of the outer line of the city's fortifications, which have a radius of twelve miles, and include a considerable area of farm and garden land and twelve small agricultural villages.

The city was well stocked with food at the beginning of the siege and this supply has been carefully husbanded and doled out under the strictest regulations by the military authorities. Food allotted for the civil population is turned over at stated intervals by the military governor, who fixes the retail price of each commodity. Prices, curiously enough, are lower than they were before the war, but money has really little value in a community where the amounts of each article purchasable are limited by law. Those who have no money receive free meals of approximately the same quantity allowed to those who pay for their food.

The Russians outside the city also have several aeroplanes which make frequent reconnaissance flights over the city and the surrounding neighborhood. Occasionally they attempt bomb attacks, but none of these have resulted in any serious damage. Their hope, of course, is that a stray shot may find the Hungarian arsenal and ammunition stores.

It is said that the Hungarians within the city get along very well with their Russian prisoners, many of whom have been given their parole and are allowed to move freely within a limited area. Some of the better educated Russian officers have voluntarily offered their services to officers and men of the garrison for instruction in the Russian language.

FINANCE PLAYS IMPORTANT PART IN PROFESSIONAL BASEBALL THIS YEAR

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, March 6.—The financial side of baseball promises to be one of the most important factors of the professional game during the coming season. Recent readjustments in the sport have confronted the magnates with problems which can only be answered at the expiration of the 1915 pennant races. Far from the least of these is the question of the player's salary. A large majority of the club owners in both major and minor league circuits are convinced that the limit has been reached in this direction and curtailment is necessary. Just how and when to put this economy into effect is a proposition over which there is a wide variance of opinion.

Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics has shown Spartan qualities by pruning his former world's champion team by sale and release until Coombs, Bender, Plank and Collins are no longer Athletics. Baker's connection with the club is uncertain. President Edward Barrow, of the International league, has notified the various club owners in his circuit that reductions in players' salaries were in order. Other league executives and club owners favor similar moves, but are deterred by long-term contracts which cannot be violated. The move toward economy can be seen, however, in the unconditional release of players wherever possible. Not in many years has there been the number of unconditional releases recorded since the close of the 1914 season.

A prominent baseball official said recently that the average follower of the game did not realize the increased cost of the game due to the advancement in players' salaries. Various angles in the business side of the sport made it necessary, including the increasing popularity of basketball, independent opposition and the banding together of the players themselves. Looking at it in a broad-minded manner, he said that there were conditions in the situation which warranted increases, but in many cases increases were out of proportion to the services rendered.

It has been estimated that the average salary paid by major league clubs has been doubled in the last ten years. In the case of a majority of the players the increase is less than $700 a year, but when the contracts of stars like Eddie Collins, Tris Speaker, Walter Johnson, Jake Daubert and Sam Crawford are figured in, the general advance reaches a surprising amount. The salary limit of the National league was $2,400 fifteen years ago. Today the salary of the mediocre player exceeds these figures and there is no limit for the stars.

Baseball authorities who have studied the situation carefully point out that under the conditions that prevailed in the early nineties a star infield and outfield containing such players as Delehanty, Lajoie, Cross, Flick and Thomas, could be secured for an annual outlay of approximately $17,000. Today a similar combination would require a yearly expenditure of five to seven times that amount. Yet the gate receipts prove that attendance has not increased in anything like the same ratio. Eddie Collins' acquisition and contract is said to represent an outlay of more than $100,000 during the next five years. A Chicago statistician has figures that he will have to draw well over a quarter million extra attendance to the White Sox park if he is to individually repay the investment.

GERMAN PROFESSOR MAKES DISCOVERY

CHILIAN NITRATES NOT NEEDED FOR MANUFACTURE OF EXPLOSIVES

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, March 6.—The stoppage of the importation of nitrates from Chili, says a Swiss authority, is not depriving Germany of a necessary ingredient of explosives because of Professor Ostwald's discovery of a process for making nitric acid out of oxidizing ammonia. Since the war, the factories engaged in this process have been greatly enlarged and will within a month make Germany entirely independent of the world for its nitric acid supply.

If you don't know—and out right here the principle of BRASCO LITE. And first of all—get this fact down pat. The depolished, white reflecting plane is flat—there's a reason. Long before a Brascolite was put on the market, while trying to perfect by Phonometric test the most efficient design, experiments were made with concave reflectors—all shapes of concavity—and discarded in favor of the flat. The flat reflecting plane is a patented feature of the Brascolite. And now are springing up attempted imitations of Brascolites—some with concave and some with convex reflectors (discarded principles)—none with flat reflecting planes, though—that's patented.
